So, you're reading the fine print? Well here it is:

Paul Panzera started the restaurant, first known as Paul's Pantry in 1966 while in High School. It was a 12-seat counter with four booths and large plate glass windows on Third Avenue. Often times, the same person that took your order also prepared your food.

The classic 60's diner, with an open kitchen, became a favorite for breakfast and lunch. In 1979 the operation moved from Third Avenue to the present location on Fifth Avenue. Today, the counter has become a trademark of Paul's. People of all ages and types come for the bustling sounds of the open kitchen and the best breakfast in the city.

Breakfast at Paul's can take a little longer sometimes...

We strive to meet the needs of our guests, and make every attempt to honor special requests. This attention to detail can occasionally mean an increased wait during peak times. In these cases we ask for your understanding as a courtesy to other guests who may also be waiting.

Orders may not be delivered in the exact order in which they are received, as prep times and order item combinations can often determine your wait time.

If you are in a uniquely rushed situation, please notify your server. We will do the best we can to accommodate you.
